

ASA-IM (American Soybean Association-International Marketing) JAPAN is a non-profit organization and dynamic partnership of key stakeholders representing soybean producers, soy exporters, value-added merchandisers, allied agribusiness and agricultural organizations under the U. S. Soybean Export Council umbrella. The Japan Office takes the lead in promoting soybeans and soy products as part of a larger global mission to create demand and facilitate U. S. soybean, soy, and soy product trade

We are currently accepting applications for the position of:

DEPUTY DIRECTOR

- Senior Advisor to the Country Director.
- Knowledge of agricultural and/or soybean trade as well as industry, trade and government relations a definite plus.
- Conceive, execute and evaluate market development plans as well as manage implementation of activities.
- Collect and review information on relevant program opportunities and challenges.
- Establish, maintain and improve personal working relationships within the Japanese and U. S. industries.
- Excellent bi-lingual Japanese & English language skills.
- Experience in the feed, food, and trading sectors desired.
- Other duties and responsibilities as assigned by the Country Director.
- Position requires travel within Japan and the United States.
- Computer fluency required.
- University Degree with 5-10 years experience.
- Compensation commensurate with experience.

Candidates who believe they are qualified and have an interest should send resume and salary history in English and Japanese for consideration, not later than May 11, 2009 by regular mail or electronically to the addresses provided below. Documents will not be returned and only successful candidates will be invited to interview. Equal Opportunity Employer.

American Soybean Association – International Marketing

Attn: CD, 4th Fl. KY Tameike Bldg., 1-6-19 Akasaka, Minato-ku, Tokyo 107-0052

e-mail: asatokyo@gol.com; www.asaimjapan.org

